

Job Title: Project Manager

Responsible to: Programme Manager

Main Purpose of Job

At Total mobile we believe in making work more productive and enjoyable by providing enterprise apps that deliver a consumer experience. We deliver field work force management solutions for a wide range of markets including health, local government, social housing, utilities, and facilities management.

A Project Manager within Total mobile is a key customer facing role and you will be responsible for managing the delivery of solutions through the entire project lifecycle to customers. You will manage colleagues, partners and third-party suppliers in the process and identify who the key stakeholders are to manage expectations.

You will be responsible for ensuring projects are delivered on time by meeting deadlines, within budget and to a quality standard defined by Totalmobile. You will also manage risks and ensure their mitigation. The role also involves support of pre-sales and after sales activities to commercial and account managers as required.

Reporting to the Programme Manager and working alongside a team of experienced colleagues you will have proven project management and implementation expertise on the supplier side of projects and will be responsible for the alignment and delivery of projects liaising with customers, partners, staff, and third-party suppliers. You will be an excellent team player and be able to motivate your project teams to ensure their success.

The successful candidate, will have a demonstrable ability to learn, completed a recognised project management qualification and at least three years' experience in a similar role. You will be highly motivated with the ability to learn innovative technologies quickly and have expertise in software implementation.
